ASPIRING ENTREPRENEURS

The U.S. FUTURE LEADERSHIP FOUNDATION has created a street wear company titled "Zipped Street Wear", designed to promote entrepreneurship in high school and middle school students. This is a non-profit corporation with the intention of providing students with a way to save for college and gain hands on experience with managing a company. This company is for voluntary high school and middle school students who are motivated, interested in broadening their resume, and curious about entrepreneurship. All revenues will be used towards member's college funds, community outreach programs, charity actions, etc... There are four adult mentors for this program who are experienced in entrepreneurship, and BRC cleared to work with children.
